California Mental Health Commission Authorizes Funding for Alpine and Imperial County to Prevent or Reduce the Impact of Mental Illness

Today, the California Mental Health Services Oversight and Accountability Commission (MHSOAC) authorized Mental Health Services Act (MHSA) funds for Prevention and Early Intervention (PEI) programs in Alpine and Imperial County. The MHSOAC authorized $278,500 for Alpine County and $1,835,124 for Imperial County.

MHSOAC Chair Andrew Poat said, “Prevention and Early Intervention programs will transform the mental health system. We will stop requiring consumers to “fail first” before receiving services and we will move to a “help first” system.” Mr. Poat said, “Prevention and Early Intervention programs are a new approach to mental health in California. This program is a win for both mental health consumers and taxpayers.”

In 2004, the Mental Health Services Act was approved by California voters as Proposition 63 to provide for expanded mental health services in California. A Mervin Field Poll released in June 2008 shows 73% - or 7 in 10 - of California voters surveyed oppose cuts in mental health services to balance the state budget.

Mr. Poat said, “Our prevention programs will decrease expensive emergency room visits as we provide prevention services to consumers of mental health services.” “Prevention and Early Intervention funds will keep kids in school, keep families together, and will avoid long term unemployment,” said Mr. Poat.

The MHSOAC met on Thursday, July 23rd, at the California Institute for Mental Health building in Downtown Sacramento.

This MHSOAC meeting is one of many Commission meetings that take place around the state. The intent of these meetings is to conduct business where the public can have access to the Commission and where the Commission can bring information regarding mental health oversight and accountability to the public.
